

As the research says, creative play really is the language of childhood. No matter the topic covered, I have found that as long as the lesson involves a bit of art, role-playing, games, and some freedom of movement, students are engaged. In this lesson and Quiz Show style game, students get to answer through acting, drawing, imagining, and problem solving as a team. I hope that your students enjoy this activity, having serious fun learning!

Imagine If.....

Imagine if you were a new student, like Maya, and when you tried to be friendly, the other kids moved away, laughed at you, and/or ignored you. How would you feel? What would you think?

Draw how you FEEL when you do something kind

Imagine if you were Chloe and had treated Maya badly, like she did in the book, how would you feel about your actions? What would you think?

Imagine if you were the new kid at school and didn't know anyone. What could other people do to help you feel welcomed and more comfortable?

Draw yourself doing something kind

Imagine if the ending of Each Kindness was different; Maya returns to school and Chloe gets a second chance to make things better. What would Chloe say to Maya to repair the mistakes she made?

Dear _____

Sincerely,

Imagine if you were a new student at an unfamiliar school when you tried to be friendly towards others, they moved away, laughed at you, and ignored you. How would you feel? What could you do to get help?
